

Chaos Theory Promotions Returns with Landmark Show Featuring The Bouncing Souls and The Aquabats in Wrexham

Chaos Theory Promotions has officially returned — and it's doing so in emphatic style. The relaunched promoter has confirmed its first show, bringing two legendary punk rock acts, The Bouncing Souls and The Aquabats, to The Rockin' Chair, Wrexham, on Wednesday 4th March.

The announcement marks a major moment for live music in North Wales, signalling Chaos Theory Promotions' renewed commitment to bringing high-quality, internationally respected acts back to Wrexham and Chester, while helping rebuild a thriving grassroots music scene.

Headlining the night are The Bouncing Souls, a band widely regarded as one of punk rock's most enduring and beloved institutions. Formed in 1989, the New Jersey quartet have spent over three decades crafting anthemic, heartfelt punk, earning a fiercely loyal global fanbase through relentless touring and an unwavering love of live performance. With ten full-length albums to their name, including Simplicity, The Bouncing Souls continue to balance the raw energy of their early work with the depth and confidence that comes from decades on the road. Their live shows remain a celebration of community, connection, and timeless punk spirit.

Joining them are The Aquabats, punk rock's self-styled superheroes and one of the most unique and joyful bands the genre has ever produced. Formed in 1994 in Orange County, California, The Aquabats quickly stood out thanks to their larger-than-life characters, iconic costumes, and commitment to injecting fun into a scene that often took itself too seriously. Across a career spanning three decades, they've released a string of cult-classic albums, launched the award-winning TV series The Aquabats! Super Show!, and built a multi-generational fanbase that continues to grow.

Fresh off celebrating their 30th anniversary in 2024, The Aquabats arrive in Wrexham with renewed energy following the release of FINALLY!, a fan-funded album that proves their creativity and enthusiasm are as strong as ever. Their live performances blend punk, ska, theatrics, and pure chaos — making them the perfect counterpart to The Bouncing Souls on what promises to be a truly unforgettable night.

For Chaos Theory Promotions, this show represents more than just a relaunch — it's a statement of intent.

"Bringing The Bouncing Souls and The Aquabats to Wrexham for our first show back felt like the right way to do this," said a spokesperson for Chaos Theory Promotions. "This is about raising the bar, putting Wrexham back on the touring map, and creating nights that people remember for years."

With further announcements planned across Wrexham and Chester, Chaos Theory Promotions' return signals an exciting new chapter for live music in the region.
